Messrs H. Hackfeld & Co... in Europe is large and increasing. We congratu-Agents, Pacific M. S. S. Co., Honolulu, GENTLEMEN,-Your letter of the 2ath ult, addressed late our friend Greig, the owner of Fanning's to his Ex. the Minister of Interior and myself has had our careful consideration, and I beg to assure you that His Majesty's Government are fully impressed of the importance of the Pacific and Australian line of steamships making Honolulu a port of going and returning, for the purpose of receiving and of the beautiful Kon wood. Altogether it is a delivering the mails, landing and receiving freight and passengers, His Majesty's Government will agree to allow the said Pacific Mail Steamship Co. piece of workmenship well worthy of the inspection of those who admire a beautiful work of artthe following privileges, benefits and exemptions, The order of procession for the funeral will be namely : 1st. The free use of the wharf on the Esplanade known as the steamwharf during the stay of the Company's steamers in port free of charge.

That the Government will admit free of duty coals, machinery and supplies required for the use of the said steamline, and all vessels arriving laden with coals, machinery and supplies, imported by said steamline for its own use, shall be exempt from port charges, the same as the steamers, unless such vessel be only partially so laden, in which case they will be exempt from such charges in the ratio which such cargo bears to the entire capacity of the vessel, such vessels however will be charged wharfage after they have discharged their cargo of coals, machinery and supplies, if they remain at the wharf twenty-four bours after such discharge, and all property of the steamship line shall be exempt from taxation. 5th. That the Government will grant the free use shoes. In this condition he says:- " I met a man of one of the stone warehouses on the steamer wharf for the storage of produce bona-fide to be shipped by the said steamships, and the use of the tramways The Christian may take a lesson from this Mussulfor the loading and unloading of said ships, also a lot of land for the use of said ships for the storage of man of resignation to the will of God. Scarce any goals, machinery and supplies.

I beg also to state what his Ex. the Minister body is so wretched but that he may find some one more miserable than himself. A French poet Foreign Affairs and myself said verbally to your Mr. writes: Le bonheur vient de l'ame, comme l'eau Pfluger and Mr. Hall that the Cabinet would recommend to the next legislature the granting of a cash du rocher-" Content springs from the soul, as subsidy for the said steamship line of at least one thousand dollars per month. I might also state to you that by request of his Ex. the Minister of Interior, the stone warehouse on the steamers wharf and their attachments have been turned over to this department; hence the reason, l have alone the honor of addressing you, I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant, (Signed) J. S. WARRER, Minister of Finance.

The letter of His Excellency the Minister of Pinance centains all the points which were to form the contract, in a definitive manner, except that relating to the subsidy which was promised on the condition that the Legislature should make the necessary appropriation of the little folks might be acceptable. The troupe | for the purpose. Had His Majesty's Government had at that time an appropriation at its disposal, the contract would have been finally concluded in October or November, 1875. Under the circumstances, however, that could not be done then. The promise of the Miniaters to ask from the Legislature a subsidy was made by them and accepted by the Company in good faith. The appropriation was ers " a body of M. > "That in disbursing the sum of $20,000 ' placed in the Appropriation Bill for subaidy of to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, no " part shall be used for any service already 'performed by the steamships of the said "Company, but said money shall be used only "Government and the said steamship Com-

In making this publication we need hardly say that we do not in any way mean to show the slightest disrespect to the members of His Majesty's Government, for whom we have, indeed, only feelings of the highest respect and consideration, but we do so merely in justice to the Company which we represent, and to refute the charge of injustice which has been imputed to the Company in several communi-cations which have lately appeared in the newspapers of this city.

MAKAWAO, Feb. 27th, 1877. Mr. Eprron : Things here are moving on in the even tenor of their ways-everybody is making preparation to commence grinding during the month vantage for that operation, but that is the time to commence planting, and they will cut the cane to get seed. Grove Ranch, Hamakuapoko, East Maui and Haiku, all have carpenters, masons, painters at work about the boiling houses, fixing up things. The weather is fearfully dry, and has been all this month. That venerable individual, the "oldest inhabitant," says there has not been such a dry February in the last three hundred years-and every body believes it. But old Equity mays there is a law of gravitation that governs the rain fall as surely as it did the apple fall in Newton's time, and for this remarkably dry February we may expect an unusually wet summer; that in fact it is going to rain all the time-and nobody believes that. It shows comparatively how the community regards the characters of those old savans for truth and verselty. But " such is life."

In the course of time his services were required where he had agreed to work, but as he could not duplicate himself or work by proxy, and each of the parties were greedy to have the benefit of his labor at the same time, he came to grief.

Last Tuesday morning he was aroused from his little bed, adorned with government jewelry, and in charge of a native policeman, started for his morn-ing walk for Lahaina. But having an eye to "re-trenchment and reform," thought be might as well those iron bonds, and struck the officer in the of the head with a stone, which brought him from the horse to the ground.

tion of the forests in Nauanu Valley. That it would rain more in Honolulu than in the valley, that the heat in town would increase, and that the trade winds would give way to southern breezes, are predictions which I made during last fall when I advocated the necessity of replanting the forests in the valley, and I think, and every one in Honolulu must coincide with me, that my predictions are becoming true. The laws of Nature are more strictly enforced than the laws of the Medes and Persiaus. This much as a preface in reviewing your editorial on any area.

A system of sewerage, when it can be introduced thoroughly, is undoubtedly one of the best safeguards of a city's health, but experience has shown that wherever sewerage is faulty or incomplete it becomes just the reverse, and turns into a malignant system of wholesale poisoning, and it is very doubtful if the best engineer could build a system of sewerage in our level city ground that would discharge the filth from the limits of the town. The slope from Bere-tania street towards the town is unsufficient to float the filthy matter down to the sea without a large amount of water to assist, and that large amount of water has gone with the forests in the valley. Then again, supposing the filth of the whole city were discharged by sewerage towards the sea except it were discharged under the wharfs of the harbor (not a nice place, I should judge) it would be discharged within Fisherman's Point, on the flat, and then the prevailing southwinds would strew the obnexious matter all along the shore, to becomes more poisonous than at present. Thus the want of water on account of the destruction of forests and the change of the winds prevents sewerage and be-comes a danger to the health of Honolulu. But if you allow me the term there is an aerial sewerage system that might be put in immediate force with-out expense or labor, that would be at this season of the year of as much benefit to the health of the city, as an underground sewerage. The city of Honolulu is a park, a beautiful park. It might not inaptly be called a forest. The usual tradewinds of former years have left us or at least have become few as angel's visits, and the mild southerly breezes are prevented from blowing through the city not only on account of the ever increasing buildings and narrow crooked streets, but more so on account of the forest, where the branches of the trees are in general so low that every free circulation of air is obstructed. In fact the air of Houciulu is stagnant, and what stagnant air | In New Orleans where Yellow Jack has enlightened the people about "stagment air" at such seasons batteries of two guns are drawn from street to street and fired to

We may come to this, where the dense foliage incloses every pestilencial exhalation from thousands of cesspools, in use and covered, from stables and other sources and leaves no escape to the heaviest and most deadly carbonic acid which daily and hourly is sent into the air of Honolulu, from everything dead and decaying, and from everything living, be it animal or vegetable life while the beat "in payment of service to be rendered after a in unison rises from degree to degree, and when "contract shall have been signed between this even for a few hours a fresh trade wind drives away the noxious gases towards the harbor, the south wind drives them back again to their prisons beceath the low branches of trees that shelter This resolution has been interpreted by His closets. It is necessary, the health of the city de-Nuganu avenue should be trimmed up to certain hights, and in fact this should be done not only on account of bygienic considerations, but even for the sake of ornament and beauty. There is not a decent looking tree in the city or suburbs and when an effort has been made at trimming it invariably has been done in such a miserable and bungling manner that it is a disgrace and insult to nature Trimming the trees throughout the city would afford what I have termed an aerial sewerage. It would open a road for either trade or south wind to sweep. through the town, the highways and the hyways and stir the air. If to this is added as enforced monthly application of disinfectants to closets, an occasional washing down of the streets, in time of prolonged drought we may hope to pass the heated term. General Butler preserved by enforced clean-liness the health of New Orleans. New Orleans, Galveston, Vera Cruz and Savannah, are famous as unwholesome cities and unwholesome on account of fresh winds lacking to stir the air. I hope that Honolulu will not be added to the list. Since the Upon the prorogation of the Legislature in October last, we were promised by the late

> MR. EDITOR-In an editorial of the Commencial ADVERTISER (March 10,) you very forcibly refer to the existing want of sewerage, and every one pos-sessed of sound reason must consider that it is high time, under existing oircumstances, that some earnest efforts should be made to keep up the fame and good name of Honolulu as a healthy city. The season is advancing rapidly and more rapidly than usual towards what is styled the heated term. We are in the middle of March, and the thermometer has already been up to the 90s, and before long it will be up to 100°. Those are degrees of heat, whose like are unknown to have prevailed in this city within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, but still the consequences are of natural onuses—the destruc-tion of the forests in Nausau Valley. That it would
